Airport cancels May air show

AUBURN — An air show planned in conjunction with the 14th annual Auburn Spring Motorfair has been canceled, according to DeKalb County Airport manager Russ Couchman.

Couchman said the decision to cancel the event was made after it was determined there was insufficient time to plan the event.

Todd McCutchan of Victory Aviation, the operator of the airport, and Couchman announced plans for the air show in January. The event had been scheduled for May 20-22 as another activity for people attending the annual spring automobile auction. An auction of aircraft and World War II aviation memorabilia is planned as a part of Motorfair.

Couchman said Friday there was insufficient time to plan the event and find sponsorship and volunteers.

“It is better to plan for next year, rather than have a poor show and get off to a bad start,” he explained. He said an air show is an excellent way to promote the airport.

and provide family entertainment.
